SYNOPSIS.

CHICAGO, Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] One man dead and a woman seriously injured tell but a part of the disastrous effects of the bursting of a boiler in the Hotel Windermere, at Fifty-sixth street and Corbin avenue, one of the most fashionable hosteries on the South Side, at 5:30 o'clock this morning.

John Rappocho, the engineer, was instantly killed. Mrs. Sets May, occupying a suite on the second floor, was cut and bruised by the wreckage, and was rescued unconscious and in a serious condition.

A four-story apartment building directly back of the Windermere was partly wrecked from the force of the explosion, and four families narrowly escaped injury from flying debris blown through the windows. That none of the hotel guests were killed is considered almost miraculous.

Following the explosion, which had the sound of a clap of thunder, the rudely-awakened guests became panic-stricken. Men and women jumped from their beds, groping their way in the dark to the doors, found them-

FOUR IN ONE GRAVE.
Budgeman Brothers, Who Were Killed by Explosion in Detroit Mines, are Buried.

[BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.]

HUNTINGTON (W. Va.) Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] The unusual and pathetic episode of four brothers being buried in one grave was witnessed here this afternoon. The brothers were Peter, Edward, Philip and Morris Budgeman, all young men who met death by an explosion at the Detroit mines on New River, last Thursday. Their funeral was attended by hundreds. A sister of the dead brothers was the wife of another victim of the disaster. She is lying unconscious from the shock, and will probably lose her reason.

TAMMANY HALL IS BADLY SPLIT.

BOSS MURPHY TO FIGHT FOR HIS LEADERSHIP.

Republicans' Dissensions Give the Democracy Hope of the Governorship, but Factionalism Has Rent New York's Great Political Organization—Herrick the Favorite.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

NEW YORK, Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Charles Murphy, in the opinion of his friends, as well as his enemies, is now facing the most serious crisis of his Tammany Hall leadership. No sooner has the patronage policy of Mayor McTeehan restored to him a greater part of the territory he lost by his methods in the recent mayoralty campaign than he finds his organization split into three factions over the question of the gubernatorial nomination. To harmonize the factions he has issued a pronouncement of absolute obedience to his will, which is the traditional prerogative of a Tammany chief, will make heavier demands upon his abilities and his immediate counselors than he has ever felt before.

Because of the intervening war of the Republicans party, the Governorship fight appears more promising to the Democrats this fall than any time since Odell became the dominant factor. The dawn of the bright prospects made Tammany men almost hopelessly. As it stood today, Murphy and his friends are in favor of D. Cady Herrick. Timothy D. Sullivan has his followers for William Jerome Jerome. Haffen, with Brooklyn and the Bronx, is for the Bronx.

PRIESTS IN THE DARK.

It was an experience that the guests of the Windermere will never forget. They held prisoners without light. They thought the roof that sheltered them from the storm that raged without was burning. When the smoke was at its thickest there came the sound of metal striking wood. The stroke came with regularity that told that the wipers knew their business. Words of encouragement came, and finally the firemen, their axes in hand, battered down every door that had refused to yield; and those who had been facing death were released from their perilous positions.

WRECKAGE OF INTERIOR.

The dining-room floor, directly over the boiler, was literally picked up and tossed away. Twenty-two inches of concrete, heavy timber and iron and marble composed the floor. After the explosion, it was difficult to distinguish between the different materials so fine were the bits. Broken windows told the direction the flying tables and chairs had taken.

So great had been the concussion that the doors had been jammed upward, and the concrete of the fireproof building was not strong enough to stop the impact. No strength of man was sufficient to move them. But that condition was confined to the first and second floors. Those who lived beyond were free to rush from the structure. Nor did they waste time in attiring themselves. In a moment, the corridors were filled with men and women rushing to a place of safety.

Of the cause, little can be learned. Joseph H. DeFer, president of the company which owns the building, says the boiler was inspected two weeks ago. Whether it was neglected on the part of the engineer will never be known, and if it was he paid for his carelessness with his life.

BIG BALTIMORE FIRE.

CHROME WORKS DAMAGED.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

BALTIMORE, Jan. 21.—After a long absence, John E. Woodruff, president of the House of Representatives, held a conference at the White House, tonight, with former Gov. Timothy L. Woodruff and the four Republican members in the House of Representatives from Brooklyn, mainly with reference to the consideration of the appointment of a successor to Robert Sharp, the naval officer at the Port of New York, whom the President has declined to reappoint because of the administration of sharp's office. No conclusion was reached.

There also was some talk of chairman of the Republican State Committee in succession to former Gov. Benjamin B. Odell. Woodruff later took up the question of the nomination of a candidate for the chairmanship. His business interests, he explained, required practically all his time, and in the present circumstances he did not see how it would be possible for him to do anything else but take up the business of the world and the chairmanship of the committee. The President, he said, did not intend to interfere in the matter of a choice of a chairman. The President, he added, wanted the Republicans to get together and select a good and satisfactory man for the position.

MARRIED POOR GIRLS.

BOSTON, Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Two wealthy men, one Leroy Sanborn of Commonwealth Avenue, Boston, a millionaire, and the other Frank Sanborn of New York, son of the "Sage of Concord," were married yesterday to poor girls, who up to the day of their marriage were obliged to work for their living. Fay's bride was Miss Jennie Murphy, a native of Prince Edward Island, and a domestic on the Borden estate at Weston. Sanborn married Miss Mary DeCooley, stenographer in the office of the Massachusetts Mining Company. There was no opposition to the Leroy-Murphy marriage on the part of the groom's family, and only slight opposition to the Sanborn-DeCooley match.

Sailmaker Insane—The Chief Officer and Six Others Still Missing.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

VICTORIA, (B. C.) Jan. 21.—The steamer Queen City arrived this morning with Capt. Davidson and sixteen other survivors of the wrecked steel ship King David, which dragged her anchor and drifted broadside on Bajo Reed December 13 when the survivors left her a total wreck, after spending five weeks in an abandoned fishing camp with big driftwood fires burning nightly to signal any vessel that came near. Although the shipwrecked men were on an uninhabited beach for so long, they did not suffer severely, and had provisions for a month longer when picked up.

Capt. Davidson said he encountered thick weather, and having no observation, ran too far north, and when he sighted the recently-established Clayoquot Light he mistook it for Cape Beale. December 10, at 9 p.m., the lookout reported breakers on the lee bow, the ship clearing them. More breakers were seen, and he anchored in 8 fathoms. Three days later, the weather cleared and observations showed the proximity of dangerous reefs. A northeast wind blew fresh, and he tried to work seaward, but the

After the mate's boat left, a steamer's smoke was seen, but she was too far away to be signaled. The survivors remained, camped in the Indian fishing huts on the shore until January 14 when the steamer Queen City was sighted entering Nootka.

Capt. Townsend had seen the wreck and the smoke of the survivors' camp, and rescued them. The shipwrecked party launched their two boats and put off the steamer. Capt. Townsend arranged to call for them on his return, but, before returning, he returned for them next day.

When the Queen City was at Quatsino, the sailmaker died and was buried on shore. The others are in good health.

The salvage steamer Salvor will not be sent, as Capt. Davidson reports there is no chance of saving the vessel, which, although she withstood the Christmas gale, will probably break up in succeeding storms.

RICH ORE FIELDS IN MOROCCO.

AMERICAN DELEGATES ARE IM-PRESSED BY WEALTH.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

Wonderful Stories are Told Them of Coal Deposits, Forests of Cork Trees and Virgin Gold—Minister Gummere Points Out the Practical Difficulties in the Way.

[BY THE ASSOCIATED PRESS—P.M.]

ALGECIRAS, Jan. 21.—The American delegates to the Moroccan conference have been impressed with the undeveloped wealth of Morocco and the opportunity it afford for American enterprise. Wonderful stories are told of coal deposits within an hour's ride of Tangier; of untouched forests of cork trees near at hand, and of gold-fields in the Atlas Mountains. The Moors continue to work on a small scale the copper veins opened by the Romans but mining engineers, who have scarcely dared to turn a stone for fear of the natives, aver that not only copper, but tin and iron mines, which are equal to the best mines of Spain.

The old sailmaker, Donald McLeod, became insane and tried to jump into the fire on the beach. He was restrained and placed under guard. Two seamen tried to make their way along the beach. They returned almost finished three days later, and reported having met a half-breed, who said no relief would come until March as the coast was not inhabited. As there is a large Indian village and store at Nootka, eight miles from the mariners' camp, of which anyone met with could have told them, their story was not believed.

Capt. Davidson's chart and directions were out of date, and although there was succor enough ten miles away and many intervening settlements with telegraph connection, they did not know where to go. The nearest place assistance could be had was Cape Beale, 100 miles away, was the nearest place assistance could be had. The captain called for volunteers. Nine seamen responded. Six were chosen, and December 21 they left for Cape Beale in Chief Officer Wallstein's boat. It was never heard of after rounding Hesquiat Point. A heavy gale blew December 23, and continued for five days. The boat was doubtless swamped and all drowned.

STRAP-HANGERS' FRIEND.

ST. Overweight street cars are condemned. It is proposed to give a man a seat in the early morning, or noon or when the rush comes in the evening, and start agitation, which will only cease when the strap-hanger is rendered by street car companies.

Wonderful Exhibition of Nerve at the Park.

A babel of cries, a shouted command to be silent, then silence. A brief rumble of hoofs, then a mad dashing high in the air. A downward, dizzy fall like a streak of red lightning on a brown cloud. A great splash; streams of foam-tipped water spouting twice a man's height. Two seconds of utter stillness.

white-faced girl, out of the seething pool struggled a horse. And from twice as far away sprang another. Countless hands were struck together again and again, and while a man caught the dripping girl as she slipped from the brown's back and another seized and threw about her a rough horse blanket; such a hullabaloo of admiration swept the throng that a newcomer, hurrying on the scene, would have made himself a butt had he added, "Did we do it?"

A moment later, Lorena Lawrence, the gray blanket slipped from her red-jerseyed bust and trailing from hip to heel, walked across the Agricultural Park track waving her handkerchief to the crowded grand stand—until the cheers to burst forth anew. In the hands of a childlike blanket she carried a $2 gold piece—presented to her in excitement and applause by the wife of the country's biggest bookmaker over the heads of a surrounding crowd; a spontaneous tribute to cool nerve.

The $20 forfeit money posted by Miss Lawrence with The Times last week as an earnest of her determination to train horses, horseback from a height of forty-two feet into a tank of water twelve feet deep, will be returned to the young woman today at her expense. The $1 reward offered by Dr. Carver to anyone performing the feat already has been paid. She won it without a quiver.

Lawrence, as told at the time of the posting of her forfeit, is 13 years old, the daughter of William Lawrence, a Southern Pacific train inspector, and lives with her father at No. 912 Maple Street. Her first diving record was born. The girl is tall, of an athletic build; a fearless horsewoman and an expert swimmer. She wants to "travel with the stars," and she stands from the winning of the $20 standing reward, to gain regular employment of Dr. Carver as a diving rider by scoring a success at Agriculture Park. She has scored the friendly and took the money, but her bigger ambition has been, in horse parlance, left at the post. Dr. Carver said yesterday that he could not think of any other girl on his list who "But I will let her ride the dive! three or four times more while I am here, if she wants to do it," he added.

A CORMOPOLITAN CROWD. There was hardly a vacant seat in the big grand stand when diving time came yesterday afternoon, and perhaps half a hundred spectators crowded in the field inside the track. It was a cosmopolitan crowd. Myriad hoodlums squatted on the grand stand roof and made obnoxious noise; nice people and common rubes, all here to have their breath together in the tiered benches; society and a sporting contingent standing around, to gain regular employment of Dr. Carver as a diving rider by scoring a success at Agriculture Park. Death of John Maidment, Heir to Wealth and British Titles and Rejected by Maid.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES. DULUTH (Minn.). Jan. 21.—[Executive Dispatch.] John Maidment, heir to wealth and British titles, a "man of mystery," and said to have been a close relative of Baroness Burdett-Coutts, died a few days ago in a Wisconsin asylum for the insane at Menomonie.

Maidment was sent there, from his place, "The Meadow," situated near Sunrice, Minn., on the St. Croix River, four weeks ago. He was 30 years of age, and had been a harm for nearly two years. He came to America nearly six years ago, and it appears his relatives in Britain believe that he remains abroad. He was a man of education and refinement, a graduate of Heidelberg, and always had plenty of money. It is believed the investigation of affairs will show he has money on deposit; treasure that is buried, and jewelry, besides his lands.

within the past few weeks has been subject to periods of great melancholy. Her home, however, was an ideal one, and there was not the slightest reason for her disappearance because of any domestic discord.

It was feared that she had thrown herself in the lake at Westlake Park, and for several hours yesterday a corps of men in charge of Detective Jones and Murray Harris, who is a near neighbor of the Chases, dragged the lake with grappling hooks.

Three complete circles of the lake were made, thoroughly covering the bed for a distance of 200 feet from the banks, and there was not the slightest indication of a body beneath the waters. A search was also made in portions of the lake at Echo Park, and in ponds in the Crown Hill district.

It is now the belief of the relatives and friends that the woman has wandered away into some suburban part of the city, and that she may be at some cottage where her identity is unknown, or that she may be in such condition mentally that she is unable to explain who she is.

A woman whose home is on West Fifth street, about fifteen minutes walk from the Chase home, No. 617 Witmer street, says she saw a woman passing her home, dressed in a coat taller than that of Mrs. Chase. At that time the stranger was taking a path through some vacant lots and was headed towards Westlake Park. Investigation proved that the woman was not Mrs. Chase.

When she left her home Mrs. Chase was bareheaded. She wore a black and white skirt and a light challice waist. She had no outer wrap so far as is known.

She was seen again several hours in Westlake Park during Saturday afternoon, in company with her two children and a nurse.

The woman was tall, of an athletic build; a fearless horsewoman and an expert swimmer. She wants to "travel with the stars," and she stands from the winning of the $20 standing reward, to gain regular employment of Dr. Carver as a diving rider by scoring a success at Agriculture Park. Dr. Carver said yesterday that he could not think of any other girl on his list who "But I will let her ride the dive! three or four times more while I am here, if she wants to do it," he added.

WOMEN ALMOST FAINTED.

Afterwards women said they had had to hold themselves to keep from fainting. Answering them, a man spoke of the sensation of stifling oppression he had once experienced at a hanging; the skeleton-like diving stand had called up to his mind a picture of the scaffold.

It was noted that after two and three days of the diving, splash before panting horse, and white-washed ride, rose through the heaving surface of the tank. She slipped from the brown's back just as he clambered out onto the wet bank, and a man caught her in his arms. She was herself again in a minute, smiling and gasping and declaring in response to quick questions that she "wasn't scared a bit" and "wanted to do it again."

Crowds came running from everywhere and pressed in upon her. A man in a suit of horsehair clothes bunched in the field inside the track. It was a cosmopolitan crowd. Myriad hoodlums squatted on the grand stand roof and made obnoxious noise; nice people and common rubes, all here to have their breath together in the tiered benches; society and a sporting contingent standing around, to gain regular employment of Dr. Carver as a diving rider by scoring a success at Agriculture Park. Death of John Maidment, Heir to Wealth and British Titles and Rejected by Maid.

BY DIRECT WIRE TO THE TIMES.

PITTSBURGH, Jan. 21.—[Exclusive Dispatch.] Catherine Gray, a nurse of Homewood avenue, just for fun, she says, impersonated Katherine Gray, who disappeared from a fashionable East End residence, where she had been working as a domestic, when her story of being a heiress to a $100,000 fortune was discovered.

Many offers of marriage had been made to Katherine, the alleged heiress, as well as offers of money by fortune hunters to help get her out of jail if she would "divvy up." One of these proposals, from Lawrence Faust, a Swedwick coachman, reached Catherine by mistake of a letter carrier. Seeing a chance for fun, she says, she answered the letter and accepted him with Faust. She is said to have received $600 from him to help her get her fortune.

Finally she became alarmed at the extent of her deception, and "fessed up," as she says, to the police, who sent before Magistrate Neary and charged the girl with obtaining money under false pretenses. Catherine is held under $500 bond for a hearing tomorrow.

BREAK JAIL WITH A SPOON.

Two Alleged Felons Escape from Custody.

Cut Their Way Through the Roof Without Tools.

Flimsy Construction of New Building Proven.

With two small pewter spoons for tools Harry Howard and Cyril Edlington yesterday morning cut a hole in the roof of the County jail and escaped.

At a late hour last night there was no clue to the whereabouts of the two men, and it is believed that they have had sufficient time to separate themselves from Los Angeles by many miles, carefully covering their tracks.

Every available deputy sheriff and constable in Los Angeles county has been at work on the case since 6:30 o'clock Sunday morning when Guard M. E. Snyder discovered the fact that there had been a jail delivery.

The escape of the two men yesterday demonstrated beyond a doubt the inferior construction of the new County Jail. Sheriff White and attorney general both said that other guests in the house began to fear something had happened to the young Edlington is 25 years old; weighs 120 pounds, height 5 feet 4½ inches; brown hair. One prominent feature of his description which may aid in his discovery is a large mole on his right cheek.

A reward of $75 has been offered by the Sheriff for the arrest of the two men.

A SPHYXIATED IN BATHROOM.

CARL HOPKE FOUND UNCONSCIOUS AND DIES LATER.

In preparing for bath he lit instantaneous gas water heater and shut window-air was exhausted by heater and the young man fell to the floor overcome.

The instantaneous gas water heater coupled with the ordinary mortal's fear of cold fresh air has claimed another victim, the person of Carl Hopke, who died at the Good Samaritan Hospital yesterday afternoon after having been rooming, for some time at the Erdnach, No. 1296 South Main street, and yesterday morning went into the bathroom at about 9 o'clock and prepared to take a bath.

After turning on and lighting the gas in the heater he shut the window thus excluding all fresh air from the room. These instantaneous heaters burn up the life-giving qualities of the air very rapidly, and after a few minutes, Tonke was practically asphyxiated.

He fell on the floor and lay there for some time. At about 11 o'clock we were informed that the new County Jail, Sheriff White and attorney general both said that other guests in the house began to fear something had happened to the young man, and the door was forced, and Hopke discovered lying unconscious in the room.

He was hastily removed to a place where he could get plenty of air, but, and the police were called, fatigued, and the police surgeon did all they could for him. Later he was removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital, where the police surgeon did all they could for him. Later he was removed to the Good Samaritan Hospital. The attending physician said never before had he seen such a case as this.

Howard is a young man aged 17, but criminally wise for such tender years, it is claimed by the officers.

Edlington is a young man, it is thought to have suggested the idea of breaking jail, and after thoroughly schooled young Howard in the whole affair, undoubtedly did most of the work.

Howard was being held in connection with a local burglary, and Edlington was sent in from Long Beach, where it is alleged he received property stolen from the hardware store of A. Morris.

Both prisoners had accomplices in their work, but the latter were confined to cells on the first floor of the building. The escaped prisoners were being held in the "emergency tanks" located on the third floor of the building.

They occupied steel tanks, securely constructed and tight fit in dimension. Around these tanks runs a corridor. At night every hour, in broad daylight, a guard unlocks the cages and hands in the first meal of the day.

At this hour the doors of the cells are left open allowing the prisoners to step out in the corridor to obtain their daily exercise, which it is impossible to give them.

Howard and Edlington met in this corridor Sunday morning, and both of them carried a powder horn, a few wires, lathes, the ordinary carpenter's tools. Both men left their breakfast untouched and hurriedly scrambled to the top of their steel cages.

TORE AWAY THE PLASTER.

With their spoons the two prisoners dug away at the plaster. In a few seconds they had made a hole large enough to permit them to crawl into the opening, after which they crawled along with their hands.

The flimsy construction was flimsy and offered practically no resistance. With this much of their work done it was an easy matter for the two men to crawl into a ventilator pipe, and crawling along the pipe and having a distance of ten feet they reached the opening which led to the roof.

Reaching the top of the jail Howard and Edlington made their way to an adjoining lodging-house on Temple street by means of a ladder, and entered a bathroom window which was unbroken.

Here was the boldest movement of all. Braving the danger of detection from any of the many guests quartered in the house, which is maintained by Mr. J. Workman, the men boldly walked through the hallways until they reached the front door.

On the door of the lodging-house there is a bell which rings loudly when the door is slammed shut. The escaping prisoners in their hurry did not detect this fact, and boldly remained undetected, carrying the door closed.

Thinking one was at the door an investigation was immediately made, but the two men were out of sight when the door was opened. Not until the arrival of Sheriff Morris' men did the lodgers find a solution for the mysterious ringing of the bell.

ESCAPE DISCOVERED.

At 6:30 o'clock when Guard Snyder again appeared at the cells occupied by Howard and Edlington he immediately discovered their absence and the alarm was sounded. In a few minutes the number of men seen discovered that the officer in charge was missing.

Officers were sent in all directions but all to no avail. Not the slightest clue to the route taken by the men after they emerged from the lodging-house could be discovered.

The two escaped, one of them slightly bent, showing that force had been used when the men thought they were about to be discovered, were found lying on the floor. Plaster was strewn about and most meager investigation showed the comparative ease with which the men "got away."

The far from substantial ceiling, the walls, 5 feet 6½ inches high; blue eyes, brown hair, fair complexion, right little finger missing, left middle finger mutilated.

NEW WAY TO SKIN SUCKERS.

Get-Rich-Quick Game That is More Than Modern.

How the "Order of Ancient Aryans" is Worked.

One of Its Founders Tells of Newest Graft.

In preparing for bath he lit instantaneous gas water heater and shut window-air was exhausted by heater and the young man fell to the floor overcome.

When the "old line" insurance companies were having their unpleasantness before the investigating committee, to the "fraternals" were "way up in the air with the exultant 'I-told-you-so,'" and expressions of self-glorification.

Something to Think About

German railroads are owned by the people and run merely for the people's comfort, convenience and safety.

"They pay $187,500,000 a year in wages to employees, $700,000 pensions to old employees, $350,000 to widows, $15,000 for the burial of employees.

"There is no grafting, no stock-juggling, bond-juggling, rate-juggling, no rebates, discriminations, thefts, or frauds on shippers."

Very few accidents, and fares are less than two-thirds of American fares.

THE CITY IN BRIEF.

NEWS AND BUSINESS.

Hand Bag Stolen.

Mrs. W. P. Westerfield of Long Beach reported to the police yesterday that some time Saturday evening her handbag was stolen while she was in this city. The bag contained a purse with $13 in it.

Ebell Club Programme.

The programme this morning at the meeting of the Ebell Club will be a "Browning programme" and not Dickens, as has been erroneously stated. Miss Katherine Gill will have charge and she will read selections from Browning's drama, "Pippa Passes."

Newspaper Men Coming.

The Montana Press association, fifty strong, will leave Butte for this city by way of Salt Lake and the Salt Lake Railroad, as the guests of Senator Clark, February 10. They will make a short stop in Salt Lake and then come directly through and spend some time in Los Angeles and vicinity.

Large Excursion.

A large crowd enjoyed the excursion to Redondo given by the Los Angeles Securities Company yesterday. Eight special cars were required to convey the picnickers, and a dinner was served at the hotel. The company has subdivisional tracks at the beach town and reports a number of sales.

Lost His Suit Case.

H. T. Hodges, who is a member of the delegation of Oregonians now visiting this city reported to the police yesterday that his suit case had been either stolen or taken by mistake from the Chamber of Commerce building situated on Main street. It is believed that he has left it with others there and when he called for it it was gone.

He Liked Music.

Detectives Hawley and McKenzie last night arrested Chester W. Shry, who is charged with having stolen a phonograph valued at $15 from J. W. Todd, the well-known violinist, and the machine being given to Shry upon his alleged representation to the proprietress of Todd's rooming-house that he had been sent to procure the instrument.

Missing Girl Found.

Virginia Martin, the young girl who mysteriously disappeared on Christmas Day, was found by Detectives Talamantes and Ritch in a North Main-street lodging-house last night. The girl has been wandering about the city, living in various places, and the kind of life she has led is a mystery. She is slightly demoted and will be cared for temporarily by the authorities. Last night she was placed in care of the police matron.

Knocked Down by Car.

Martin Jean, residing at No. 812 Howard street, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when she was struck by a car No. 217 near the Aliso-street bridge. He was knocked down and dragged several feet, sustaining severe lacerations about the face and neck, two fractured ribs—both the police surgeons believe have punctured the lungs.

Mr. Coleman's Appointment.

The Northwestern Mutual Life Insurance Company of Milwaukee announces the appointment as agent of Charles M. Coleman of Los Angeles, who has resigned from an adventurous insurance man to devote himself full-time to its insurance with the Northwestern Mutual. Mr. Coleman is a graduate of the University of California and in four years attained a high standing in the newspaper profession.

American Girl His Bride.

Dr. Joseph Koshada, a native of Ossining, New York, and a graduate of medical college in the Middle West, lectured last night at the Boyle Heights Methodist Church on "The Customs and Manners of the People of Persia." The speaker was in the costume of a Persian and his lecture on Persia was interesting. Mr. Koshada is a young man and was graduated recently with honors. He announced last night that he has married the prettiest American girl in Los Angeles and his intention to travel with his bride for Persia, after delivering a course of lectures in Los Angeles.

Junior Class Annual.

The junior class of the University of Southern California will publish a junior annual to be called "El Rodeo," the name given to the annual book published by the end of 1900. It is the purpose to make the book illustrative of the entire university. In its make-up it will include all the affiliated colleges, law, medicine, dentistry, pharmacology, etc., and the like. Dr. George Mildred Proff, a former student of the Ohio Wesleyan University, is editor-in-chief, and John B. Haas business manager. The following staff will assist: William C. Johnson, president; Max Wilson, literary; Edwin Cooper, classics; Tom Higgins, athletics; Irene Carter, jokes; George Runyon, fraternities; Oliver Best, organizations; Merriman Knudsen, college year; Patrick Higgins, artist; W. Carman, photographs.

BEAVERS SEE MAGIC ISLE.

VISITING OREGONIANS VOYAGE TO CATALINA.

Are Shown the Marine Gardens and Other Attractions, but the Sea Voyage Took Away Much of Their Enthusiasm—Will Visit Hollywood, Santa Monica and Venice Today.

The Oregonian aragonists made the second of the pilgrimages arranged for them by the Chamber of Commerce yesterday, when they visited Catalina Island. If they are really well-footed, as has been reported, they must be of the fresh-water variety, for they did not find the water so bad, and the majority liked them to the tall grass as soon as the boat reached Avalon. Glass-bottomed boats were on hand to show the visitors the submarine gardens, but few took advantage of the opportunity, and all seemed inclined to patronize the stages running into the bay.

The trip over was a very solemn affair, and the weather was so bad that they drifted into the Metropole for a belated luncheon. Judging by the length of time spent in the dining-room, there were not many good appetites in the boat, and luncheon was a very quiet and sedate function.

A large crowd enjoyed the excursion to Redondo, given by the Los Angeles Securities Company yesterday. Eight special cars were required to convey the picnickers, and a dinner was served at the hotel. The company has subdivisional tracks at the beach town and reports a number of sales.

Lost His Suit Case.

H. T. Hodges, who is a member of the delegation of Oregonians now visiting this city reported to the police yesterday that his suit case had been either stolen or taken by mistake from the Chamber of Commerce building situated on Main street. It is believed that he has left it with others there and when he called for it it was gone.

He Liked Music.

Detectives Hawley and McKenzie last night arrested Chester W. Shry, who is charged with having stolen a phonograph valued at $15 from J. W. Todd, the well-known violinist, and the machine being given to Shry upon his alleged representation to the proprietress of Todd's rooming-house that he had been sent to procure the instrument.

Missing Girl Found.

Virginia Martin, the young girl who mysteriously disappeared on Christmas Day, was found by Detectives Talamantes and Ritch in a North Main-street lodging-house last night. The girl has been wandering about the city, living in various places, and the kind of life she has led is a mystery. She is slightly demoted and will be cared for temporarily by the authorities. Last night she was placed in care of the police matron.

Knocked Down by Car.

Martin Jean, residing at No. 812 Howard street, was seriously injured yesterday afternoon when she was struck by a car No. 217 near the Aliso-street bridge. He was knocked down and dragged several feet, sustaining severe lacerations about the face and neck, two fractured ribs—both the police surgeons believe have punctured the lungs.
